

AG MARSHALL ANNOUNCES 11 STATE DRUG-TRAFFICKING
INDICTMENTS,
LAUNCHES INITIATIVE ON VIOLENT CRIME

(MONTGOMERY)--Attorney General Steve Marshall announced the arrests today of 11 defendants who face multiple state drug-trafficking enterprise charges in a major joint investigation by state, federal and local law enforcement.

The Alabama Attorney General's Office, working with a group of federal, state and local law enforcement agencies conducted an extensive investigation into an alleged drug-trafficking network in Selma. Evidence was gathered through wiretaps and surveillance from February 2016 to July 2017, resulting in state and federal indictments.

"Criminals in Selma and the surrounding areas should be on notice: we will not tolerate this menace to our citizens," said Attorney General Marshall. "Selmians deserve better and I hope that you will all be encouraged by what you see here today. The indictments announced today show how efficiently law enforcement agencies can work together to fight against crime in a particular area of our state. I would like to thank our fellow law enforcement agencies for their invaluable assistance and work on these cases: the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, the State Bureau of Investigation, the Selma Police Department, and the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Southern District of Alabama.

"One of the worst parts of my job as Attorney General is the breadth of my knowledge and exposure to violent crime occurring throughout our state – much of which is related to drugs. Selma is far from the only city in our state that is suffering in this regard. It may surprise you to know that Alabama has the seventh-highest violent crime rate in the nation and, in one year alone, that rate increased nearly 13 percent. That is unacceptable. And it's why our office is committed to making our communities safer through a new Initiative on Violent Crime. We want to duplicate what you see here today. The productive cooperation between every level of law enforcement – state, federal and local - has made this town safer and we want to continue to foster this, not only in Selma, but around our state.

“We have been very heartened by the strong working relationships we’ve already established with our three new U.S. Attorneys. It is clear to me already that we are of like minds and have the potential to do a great deal to improve public safety by working together. Our office in the coming months will also be expanding the training and other resources we provide to our local partners.”

Attorney General Marshall’s Criminal Trials Division presented evidence to a Dallas County grand jury resulting in 11 indictments* on January 11 charging the following individuals with various felonies related to illegal drug transactions under Alabama law:

Trafficking in Cocaine is a class A felony, with a mandatory minimum sentence of 3 years up to life in prison and a fine of $50,000. Unlawful Distribution of Cocaine and Conspiracy to Distribute Cocaine are class B felonies, with a possible sentence between 2 and 20 years and a fine up to $30,000.

No further information about the investigation or about the defendants’ alleged crimes other than that stated in the indictment may be released at this time.

In conjunction with this investigation, both Marcus Pritchett and David Lowe also face federal indictments for various charges. For information about the federal indictments, contact the U.S. Attorney’s Office for the Southern District of Alabama.

The agencies involved in this operation are the U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA), the Alabama Law Enforcement Agency’s State Bureau of Investigation, the Alabama Fusion Center, the Selma Police Department, as well as the Attorney General’s Office and the U.S. Attorney’s Office for the Southern District. The operation was conducted under a joint investigation led by the DEA.

Attorney General Marshall commended his Criminal Trials Division, noting in particular Assistant Attorney General John Kachelman, and Special Agents of his Investigations Division. He thanked all the agencies involved in this cooperative effort, including the Dallas County District Attorney’s Office which will assist with the state prosecutions.
